

This week the courts are standing up to Trump, proving once again that the law can stop tyranny in its tracks.

GJC knows what resistance looks like.

For the past decade our legal team has worked with women's rights groups on the ground in Burma to stand up and fight back against a military dictatorship.

We know the best weapon for defending fundamental human rights and democracy is a strong rule of law.

Resist with us.

GJC's Latest News

Honor U Ko Ni's Legacy

In this morning's New York Times, read GJC Senior Burma Researcher Phyu Phyu Sann's letter calling on the international community to push for constitutional reform to honor the legacy of murdered Burmese lawyer U Ko Ni.

Read More

Going Beyond Roe

Read GJC Legal Fellow, Elena's Sarver's, piece in Ms. Magazine about defending American women's rights in these uncertain times, and contrasting Roe vs. Wade to the protections of international law.

Read More

CEDAW Year in Review

GJC worked with local women's groups throughout 2016 to prepare for Burma's first CEDAW review. See our timeline infographic to learn more about GJC's advocacy efforts in Burma and work with women's rights groups on the ground.

Read More

Unlawful Ban

Read GJC's statement on how Trump's Executive Order banning refugees and immigrants from seven countries needlessly harms those fleeing violence and conflict and violates international law.

Read More

DONATE

